PACKET 1: PRIMARY: Vested Mining Rights

Legal Basis: Utah Code 17-41-501 to -503 (now 17-81-401 to -403)
Total Documents: 932

> THIS IS THE PRIMARY CLAIM. Under Utah Code 17-41-501 through -503, Tree Farm holds a vested mining use that predates the 1972 Parley's Canyon zoning. The County cannot extinguish vested mining rights through an ordinance. The evidence below establishes: (1) Tree Farm filed notices of intention to commence mining operations with DOGM; (2) Tree Farm obtained necessary state mining permits; (3) mining operations were established before the challenged ordinance was adopted; (4) the vested mining use runs with the land and cannot be terminated except by written declaration of abandonment by the owner; and (5) the County appears to have had NO awareness of Tree Farm's vested mining rights -- they were focused entirely on CIM preemption. KEY QUESTION: Did the County ever internally discuss 'mine operator', 'vested mining', or 'mining protection area'? If not, that proves they were blindsided by this claim.

Similar to Exhibit 22, the language undermines the plaintiff's position by framing the elimination of mineral extraction as a community protection effort rather than as an illegal act. Recommended Use: Use cautiously as a summary judgment exhibit on the invalidity question. Anticipate that opposing counsel may cite this document to argue the county was acting in the community's interest.*

However, it undermines the plaintiff's position because the language reflects support for the county's action, framing the removal of mineral extraction from conditional uses as a community-protective measure rather than acknowledging it as a legal violation. Recommended Use: Use cautiously as a summary judgment exhibit on the invalidity question. Be prepared to address that this document frames the ordinance as a protective measure, which the opposing side may use to argue legitimate governmental purpose.*

It is Tree Farm's formal legal declaration asserting over 90 years of vested mining rights under Utah Code sections 17-41-501 through 17-41-503, citing continuous mining operations dating back to the 1890s, the DOGM Large Mine Permit issued in 1996, and uninterrupted operations throughout that period. Recommended Use: Use as a primary exhibit for Claim 3. This document proves that a formal recorded declaration of vested mining use was filed. It cites Portland Cement operations dating from the 1890s, references the DOGM Large Mine Permit approved in 1996, and establishes the chain of title through predecessor entities to Tree Farm LLC.*

Prior Use: "nonconforming use", "legal nonconforming"; Statutory Rights: "conclusively presumed"; Statute refs: 17-27a-100[1-5], 10-9a-90[1-5] SUPPORTS -- This is a pre-adoption warning sent to the county's own lawyer stating that the ordinance violates Utah Code 17-41-402(6). The county therefore had actual notice of the legal deficiency before the ordinance was enacted. This document also raises the argument that Tree Farm had vested critical infrastructure materials operations rights, which the ordinance would impermissibly extinguish. Recommended Use: Use in the motion for summary judgment and at trial to establish multiple critical points: the county had actual knowledge that the ordinance violated state law; the county ignored a warning from an attorney; Tree Farm asserted its vested CIM rights before the ordinance was adopted; and the county refused to participate in the Ombudsman process designed to resolve such disputes.

PACKET 2: ALTERNATIVE: Regulatory Taking

Legal Basis: U.S. Const. Amend. V; Utah Const. Art. I Sec.22; Penn Central / Lucas tests
Total Documents: 1209

> ALTERNATIVE CLAIM. Under the Penn Central and Lucas regulatory taking tests, the County's ordinance constitutes a taking requiring just compensation. The documents below establish: (1) Economic Impact -- the ordinance eliminates all economically viable mining use of Tree Farm's mineral rights and property; (2) Interference with Investment-Backed Expectations -- Tree Farm made substantial investments in mining permits and operations before the ordinance; and (3) Character of the Government Action -- the ordinance was targeted legislation designed to 'shut down' a specific operator, with community members and officials strategizing to destroy Tree Farm's mining rights.

Similar to Exhibit 22, the language undermines the plaintiff's position by framing the elimination of mineral extraction as a community protection effort rather than as an illegal act. Recommended Use: Use cautiously as a summary judgment exhibit on the invalidity question. Anticipate that opposing counsel may cite this document to argue the county was acting in the community's interest.*

However, it undermines the plaintiff's position because the language reflects support for the county's action, framing the removal of mineral extraction from conditional uses as a community-protective measure rather than acknowledging it as a legal violation. Recommended Use: Use cautiously as a summary judgment exhibit on the invalidity question. Be prepared to address that this document frames the ordinance as a protective measure, which the opposing side may use to argue legitimate governmental purpose.*

This constitutes a direct admission by the county itself that existing mining rights predated and survived the zoning changes. Recommended Use: Use as a county admission exhibit for Claim 3. County staff informed the Council that existing approved and operational mineral extraction would qualify as legal nonconforming uses. This establishes that the county was fully aware of, and publicly acknowledged, mining operations that predated the zoning changes.*

PACKET 3: REMEDY: Permanent Injunction -- Stop Enforcement

Legal Basis: Injunctive relief -- preemption + due process violations
Total Documents: 358

REMEDY. To obtain a permanent injunction stopping enforcement, Tree Farm must show: (1) it holds vested mining rights the County is violating (see Packet 1); (2) the County has taken or threatened enforcement actions; (3) Tree Farm faces irreparable harm without injunctive relief because vested mining rights cannot be adequately compensated through damages alone; and (4) the balance of equities favors relief. The documents below focus on enforcement actions, predetermined outcomes, and due process violations.

PACKET 5: DEFENSE: County Counterclaim -- County's Arguments

Legal Basis: County's defense that 17-41-402(6)(1) does not preempt the ordinance
Total Documents: 2175

> COUNTY'S DEFENSE. The County's strongest arguments are: (1) Tree Farm never obtained a conditional use permit and has no vested rights (NOTE: this is wrong -- vested rights under 17-41-501 do not require a CUP); (2) the County acted within its police power; (3) significant public opposition supports legitimate governmental interest; and (4) the 2002 Carrier decision already prohibits sand/gravel extraction (NOTE: Carrier addresses zoning, not pre-existing vested rights). Review these documents to anticipate and counter the County's defense.

*County Zoning Authority: "land use authority"; Environmental Health: "air quality", "watershed", "drinking water"; Public Opposition: "property values" "Resolution for Eighteenth Extension of Public Health" SUPPORTS -- The ordinance language itself proves a facial violation of the CIM statute by explicitly targeting "sand, gravel and/or rock aggregate," which matches the statutory definition of critical infrastructure materials. Recommended Use: Use as a core exhibit. Present a side-by-side comparison of the ordinance language with the statutory CIM definition to demonstrate facial invalidity under Utah Code 17-41-402(6).*

County Defense Preemption: "do not include any reference to critical infrastructure", "amendments do not include", "not conflict with utah code"; Public Opposition: "public comment", "public hearing"; Statute refs: 17-41-406 SUPPORTS -- This is a letter from the District Attorney to the Ombudsman that concedes the CIM preemption issue exists under Utah Code 17-41-402(6) but deliberately avoids addressing the fact that the ordinance expressly prohibits sand, gravel, and rock aggregate -- the materials that fall squarely within the statutory definition of critical infrastructure materials. The District Attorney never addressed the merits of the preemption argument, which is exactly what the plaintiff alleges. Recommended Use: Use as a lead exhibit to show District Attorney awareness of the preemption issue. This document demonstrates three critical points: (1) the county was on notice of the prohibition in Utah Code 17-41-402(6); (2) the District Attorney chose to evade rather than address the merits of the preemption argument; and (3) the District Attorney mischaracterized the ordinance by claiming it does not reference critical infrastructure materials when the ordinance expressly prohibits sand, gravel, and rock aggregate, supporting the bad faith claim.
